Call for Applications

Green Public Employment Programmes and the Future of Work: PEPs as a transformative vehicle for economic, social and environmental benefits for a Just Transition

International Executive Course

Dear Colleagues

We are pleased to announce that applications for the 2018 course Green Public Employment Programmes and the Future of Work: PEPs as a transformative vehicle for economic, social and environmental benefits for a Just Transition All has been extended!

The UCT Graduate School of Development Policy and Practice, in collaboration with the International Labour Organization’s Employment Intensive Investment Programme (EIIP), will offer this short course from the 9th to the 13th April 2018 in Cape Town (DoubleTree by Hilton Cape Town Upper Eastside).

This programme is an executive course for policy makers, planners, senior and middle-level officials from national agencies and programmes concerned with public employment.

The overall objective of this course is to lay out the conceptual and strategic framework for the promotion of green works through public employment programmes. More specifically, the course will focus on current policy debates arising from climate change adaptation and the implementation of a just transition for all through such labour based public employment programmes. It will include case studies from different national PEPs that focus on employment and its impact on the environment and biodiversity.

We invite you to consider the attached application form and course flyer, and to share this call for applications with colleagues and people in your network who might be interested in the course. For more information, please visit our website.
Please note that course fees are USD 1250 or ZAR 14 600. South African participants will need to submit a purchase order prior to the course; course fees may be paid after the course has taken place.

Applications are due as soon as possible. All queries should be directed to Hannah Diaz at hannah.diaz@uct.ac.za or +27 21 650 1459.

Kind regards

The Graduate School of Development Policy and Practice